During the past 2 1/2 years of daily use the On-Line! Detective has saved me on numerous occasions. The repair flow chart is a key feature that I rely on to make me more effective. I recently used the Detective to troubleshoot an Ultra 2 in under 5 minutes. Without the Detective I am sure it would have taken most of an hour.

The exhaustive descriptions and interactive pictures help keep our inventory and uniform, it just takes a click of the mouse to see a list of parts that compliment each machine. The Detective is a must!

The On-Line! Detective continues to impress me with each new release. It is the only technically rich resource that is in existence today. With the disappearance of the FE Handbooks and the push by Sun to highlight only the bleeding edge products, the Detective is my sales Bible!

In the morning I turn on my email and then the Detective. At Paladian we offer warranties on our products and free technical support for life to our end users...the hidden secret is that I use the On-Line! Detective to provide this technical support that our customers have come to depend upon us for.

When I first started working at Paladian Technology I couldn't troubleshoot a PC. Now I build and test the most sophisticated Sun systems every day. I am currently transitioning into a technical sales position whereby I will consult Sun brokers and end users on which systems will fit their needs.

I am confident with the backing of the On-Line! Detective to recommend proper configurations and connectivity solutions. I am 4 months old in this business. Thanks On-Line! Detective!
